

Tomada de Castro 'Flor de Verano'

(Rias Baixas DO)

100% Albariño

The Flor de Verano comes from the lowest elevation vineyard of this estate where moisture from the northwest rains aid the fruit to become a delightfully fresh and enjoyable wine that showcases the climate of the area, as well as the granite soils beneath. Low-temperature and natural yeast fermentation makes for a wine that has so much personality and liveliness in the finished bottle. Bright citrus, green apple, stony minerality, and lovely acid are prevalent across the palate, and lead to a beautiful finish that begs for a seafood accompaniment.

Bon Vivant

Tomada de Castro 'Flor de Verano'

(Rias Baixas DO)

100% Albariño

The Flor de Verano comes from the lowest elevation vineyard of this estate where moisture from the northwest rains aid the fruit to become a delightfully fresh and enjoyable wine that showcases the climate of the area, as well as the granite soils beneath. Low-temperature and natural yeast fermentation makes for a wine that has so much personality and liveliness in the finished bottle. Bright citrus, green apple, stony minerality, and lovely acid are prevalent across the palate, and lead to a beautiful finish that begs for a seafood accompaniment.

Bon Vivant

Tomada de Castro 'Flor de Verano'

(Rias Baixas DO)

100% Albariño

The Flor de Verano comes from the lowest elevation vineyard of this estate where moisture from the northwest rains aid the fruit to become a delightfully fresh and enjoyable wine that showcases the climate of the area, as well as the granite soils beneath. Low-temperature and natural yeast fermentation makes for a wine that has so much personality and liveliness in the finished bottle. Bright citrus, green apple, stony minerality, and lovely acid are prevalent across the palate, and lead to a beautiful finish that begs for a seafood accompaniment.

Bon Vivant

Tomada de Castro 'Flor de Verano'

(Rias Baixas DO)

100% Albariño

The Flor de Verano comes from the lowest elevation vineyard of this estate where moisture from the northwest rains aid the fruit to become a delightfully fresh and enjoyable wine that showcases the climate of the area, as well as the granite soils beneath. Low-temperature and natural yeast fermentation makes for a wine that has so much personality and liveliness in the finished bottle. Bright citrus, green apple, stony minerality, and lovely acid are prevalent across the palate, and lead to a beautiful finish that begs for a seafood accompaniment.

Bon Vivant

Tomada de Castro 'Flor de Verano'

(Rias Baixas DO)

100% Albariño

The Flor de Verano comes from the lowest elevation vineyard of this estate where moisture from the northwest rains aid the fruit to become a delightfully fresh and enjoyable wine that showcases the climate of the area, as well as the granite soils beneath. Low-temperature and natural yeast fermentation makes for a wine that has so much personality and liveliness in the finished bottle. Bright citrus, green apple, stony minerality, and lovely acid are prevalent across the palate, and lead to a beautiful finish that begs for a seafood accompaniment.

Bon Vivant

Tomada de Castro 'Flor de Verano'

(Rias Baixas DO)

100% Albariño

The Flor de Verano comes from the lowest elevation vineyard of this estate where moisture from the northwest rains aid the fruit to become a delightfully fresh and enjoyable wine that showcases the climate of the area, as well as the granite soils beneath. Low-temperature and natural yeast fermentation makes for a wine that has so much personality and liveliness in the finished bottle. Bright citrus, green apple, stony minerality, and lovely acid are prevalent across the palate, and lead to a beautiful finish that begs for a seafood accompaniment.

Bon Vivant